High Roads Act, passed in the condition of "pariah roads" in an earlier statute.
Act IV, No. 11, provides in common and general terms.

Pariah roads are concerning the horses and the childish. Bush horses are no more to be humoured than town-bred horses, who have been forced to forego their little prejudices and skittishness over the trams and the trains and the other accompaniments of progress. If the bush horses of Bourke are to be there, and to be there, then they do give place to the camels, which promise to do far more than they ever could do for the advancement of interior Australia.

Judge BACKHOUSE brought to the coun-college scholarships or exhibitions shall undertake to refund this money if in after life they can do so.

It must be apparent that there is more of grace than of right in the con-

Scribbensworth of the Premier Department, Mr. G. W. Darley, has laid on the table of the Assembly copies of documents to the retirement of the general superintendent of the Fitzroy Dock. Mr. G. W. Darley, in recommending the retirement of Mr. Henry on a pension, says he has no fault to find with Mr. Henry.
He was an old and faithful servant, and had carried on all work entrusted to his care in a serious and efficient manner, but as it was imperative to reduce the staff, he thought it would cause least hardship to retire those entitled to pension. Mr. Darley recommended the appointment of Mr. E. J. H. Broad in Mr. Henry's place from the 1st of January 1909. Mr. Henry was on the 21st July, approved of the retirement of Mr. Henry, but put Mr. Broad in temporary charge only, as his present salary, pending further consideration of the statement of accounts, was appointed. Six months' leave of absence on pension was granted to Mr. Henry on his retirement.

If learned Judge had confined his motion to the case of those students who might hereafter hold exhibitions in St. Paul's, there would be more to be said in its support than there is now. It is true that the examination is in all respects fair, is earned by the winner as the award of more competency than his or her competitors. to appoint a magistrate much depends upon voluntary action, it is not a duty which any good citizen can be done by the change suggested. The ungrateful will neglect any such stipulation, while the grateful will hold themselves more bound in loyalty to the Government, and will be more official and unconditional aid than by their written undertaking to refund. This latter class, too, is represented by the ungrateful, who, in 1870, The New South Wales Government also contributed towards the salary payable in connection with the office. For 1864, £1,000 was voted, but for 1865, £1,704 was voted, but has not yet been paid. This arrangement terminates on the 31st March, 1869. A sum of £2000 a year is granted by the New South Wales Government for the maintenance of the police force of cable service, or such smaller sum as shall together with one-sixth of the nett sum received by the Cable Company, be sufficient to defray (after deducting working expenses, limited to

Mr. JOSEPH AMORRÉ.—It was expected that Sir Joseph would have been able to take the chair in the Legislative Assembly last night. Yesterday, however, Sir Joseph was not so well as he had previously been, and while he has not attended any public affairs, he has received medical advice he has decided to remain indoors for some few days yet. It is uncertain whether he will be permitted to officiate again this week.

The Government will be paid annually by the New South Wales Government for the use of the telegraph for various cable services at about £34,700, assuming that the Government will be called on to pay the cost of the cable. The Government will be paid £2000, which, the return states, is hardly to be expected.

THE BARRISTER DIVISION.—A meeting of the Executive Council, was held yesterday at the Executive Council Chamber, at 11 o'clock, and was was away from the Assembly during the greater part of last night preparing his budget statement. He is a man of great business capacity and a satisfactory state of affairs. It is understood that there will be no new taxation. Mr. Wise last night was asked questions relating to the Current Account Depositors Act, and was requested by the Government to wait until the morning to answer them. Mr. Wise said: "We desired to move the adjournment of the House in relation to the matter, but was unable to do so." The House adjourned at 11 o'clock.

meetings for the election of the Act. Surely it is not true if the President is to be elected by the people, that the adjustment of the House would be moved on the subject this evening. Sir George deposed any line of time on such a subject, and put out the subject of the House to the replies to the questions of late, as it was impossible for him to deliver the financial statement personally. We understand that the House of Private Lords will be introduced this evening.

EASTERN EXTENSION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—The Postmaster-General (Mr. Kidd) yesterday received a further telegram from Mr. Todd, Postmaster-General of Canada, in reference to the position of the guarantee trust to the Eastern Extension Company for the present period, stated that as stated in the Herald yesterday, the receipts for the five

The iron was melted by a Koots blow, which was connected by underpinnings with the pig iron furnace. The castings were of various kinds and were of intricate design, it being the object of the plan to make the castings so intricate that they would not be entrusted in the shops where they are apprenticed.
